

Millfield Nursery

10th October 2019

In exploring and learning this week.....

Our focus book this week has been 'Leaf man'. We have explored a number of activities such as creating our own leaf man or another animal on the light board using leaves, sticks and acorns. As the children really liked the jelly sensory tray when we explored spiders, we have decided to set different autumnal items in jelly for them to uncover using tweezers strengthening their fine motor skills. The children explored different seasonal vegetables; they cut them open using safety knives and investigated the textures and smells.

Parent information

Please ensure your child's hot school lunch is booked by 8:30am of the morning they require it. You can book the lunches as far ahead as you wish. If you forget to book their lunch as of next week you will need to bring an alternative to the nursery by 11:20am.

Mrs Spicer has decided to go onto pastures new. We wish her luck in the future. Her key children have been reallocated and we will let the those parents know who their new key person is when we see you next.

What we will be exploring and learning next week.

Our focus book will be 'We're going on a leaf hunt'. This will give us the opportunity to extend their knowledge of story structures and look at a variety of environments covered in the book.

Cheeky challenge

What sounds can you hear when you step out of your front door.

Upcoming dates

Parent workshops, Join Mrs Hopkins and Mrs Papworth for a coffee and some information on:-

'Talk and early reading' Tuesday 29th October 9am – 10am

Tuesday 12th November 2pm and 6pm
School open day. Have a look around reception.

Thursday 21st November 9am – 10:15am –
Nursery 'Come and Play', for those children attending that session.

'Come and Play' is where you are invited to spend some time in the setting joining your child in their exploring and learning. We have themed some stay and play sessions in the past with particular focuses such as number, writing and games. We will select different days and times throughout the year so that the majority of families have the opportunity to attend.
